Academic Resource Center Referral Form

The Academic Resource Center (ARC) offers virtual individual academic coaching and peer tutoring to Harvard Extension School undergraduate and graduate admitted degree candidates and Pre-medical Program participants.

For information about additional study skills services available to Extension School Students, visit the Resources page.

ARC Individual academic coaching explores potential difficulties and blocks to the student's learning. Students are eligible for up to 3 meetings.

ARC peer tutoring provides student-to-student tutoring help in courses offered by the Extension School that match Harvard College courses (dependent upon availability of Harvard College undergraduate tutors in those particular courses). Maximum 4 hours per week.

Time and Place. Individual academic coaching and peer tutor sessions meet via Zoom, by appointment. Students interested in peer tutoring should submit their request as early in the semester as possible, because it is difficult to find tutors after midterms. Students may submit their request after the start of the semester.

Referral Procedure

1. Submit the following student information to Sue Albrigo (salbrigo@fas.harvard.edu), Academic Advisor. Referral is valid for one semester (fall and spring); no referrals are made over the summer.
2. After Sue Albrigo has approved your referral and sent it to the ARC, you will be instructed via e-mail to contact the ARC to schedule an appointment.
